

the cup is YOURS

What an absolute thrasher of a weekend!

The intensivity of the rugby game between South Africa and Wales the past weekend left many completely bewildered at what the outcome would be, whilst others made predictions through tattoo challenges.

One thing is for certain, our mighty Boks have earned their rightful place in the finals occuring this weekend against England.

What is shown to be such a noble act, is that our SA rugby team captain, Siya Kolisi, as well as the rest of the team, have proven to South Africa how talented they are, yet still accept advice from civilians of the country to help the team smash that score reading on Saturday completely.

How beautiful.

How completely and utterly humble.

The exchanging enthusiasm, pride and excitement in both President Cyril Ramaphosa and our captain's faces when they FaceTimed one another is enough to make one beam.

Thank you Boks for showcasing that South Africa is stronger together.